VALUES BASED LEADERSHIP SERIES

Successful business practitioners advocate that the best leadership actions are taken through the lens of values and beliefs. Values-based leadership strives for self-reflection to achieve self-awareness, employee motivation by connecting the organizational goals with their values, and continuous communication and the application of organizational values to bring meaning to people's work and the organization's mission.

The Values Based Leadership Series is a 30-hour program designed for individuals who want to strengthen their leadership by aligning their decisions and actions with values and purpose. The program heightens leadership strengths and focuses on best-functioning talents.

Who should attend?

This program is ideal for anyone with current or anticipated management responsibilities, ranging from existing leaders to people expecting to take on leadership roles.

If you are moving into a leadership role, you will receive tools to help develop your leadership style and approach.

If you have already assumed leadership responsibilities, you will benefit from insights on alternative methods that you can adopt to complement your leadership competencies.
